

TRAVELERS AID KEPT BUSY

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. E. H. WILLIAMS

Mrs. Mary Eliza Williams, wife of Edward H. Williams and for forty-five years a resident of Danville, died at 6 p. m., yesterday at the family residence, 120 West Thomas street, after an illness of about five hours. Death is attributed to apoplexy.

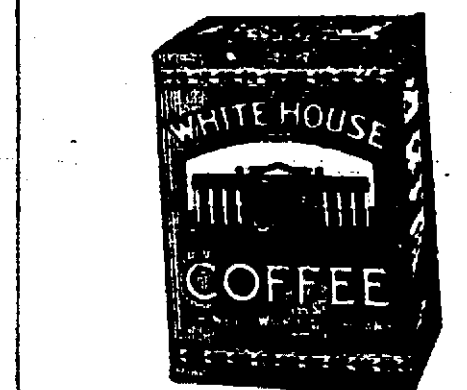

Mrs. Williams became ill between 10 and 11 a. m., and was lying down because of what was regarded as a slight indisposition when she lapsed into unconsciousness. A physician was hastily summoned when the seriousness of her condition thus suddenly developed, but she was beyond the power of medical science and passed away without regaining consciousness. With her when she died were her husband, her sister, Mrs. Margaret Pierce, and her niece, Mrs. Walker Clark.

Mrs. Williams was prior to her marriage Miss Mary Eliza Jones, daughter of the late Mayo C. Jones, a well known older resident of Danville and Mrs. Jones, who survived until a few years ago. Born at Shipman, Nelson county, Va., in 1861, her parents removed to Lynchburg about 1875 and after two years residence there came to Danville and made their home in what was then North Danville. In 1861, she was united in marriage with Edward H. Williams, who with two sons, Edward H. Jr., and J. L. Williams, both of this city, survive her. Two sisters are living, Mrs. Turner, of Lynchburg, and Mrs. Margaret Pierce, widow of H. E. L. Pierce, of Danville.

Mrs. Williams had been for many years a member and when in good health a regular attendant at Calvary Methodist church, in all the activities of which she maintained an interest. She was an admirable type of gentlewoman, of unusual amiability and kindness and pure, beautiful character.

The funeral services will take place from her late residence (120 West Thomas street), this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. Joseph T. Allen, pastor of Calvary church, conducting them.

W. L. Davis Offers To Go Back to The Penitentiary

Another Chapter in the Dudding-Trinkle Controversy Reaches the Light.

BY GEORGE H. MANNING

(Special to The Bee.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—W. L. Davis, alias George L. Craddock, formerly of Roanoke, Va., but now debarred from entering the State, has written Governor E. Lee Trinkle expressing deep regret that the governor recently declared himself sorry that he had given him a pardon. Davis offers to return the pardon and go back and serve out his sentence at the Virginia State Prison Farm if Trinkle still regrets giving the pardon. The governor will first remove Superintendent Penn and his assistant "Boss" Layne.

This is another chapter in the controversy between Governor Trinkle and E. L. Dudding, president of the Prisoners' Relief Society, over Dudding's charges of alleged gross mismanagement of the prison farm and his demand for an investigation.

Dudding had a conference in Richmond with the Governor last Saturday on the subject and upon his return declared that Trinkle had expressed regret over pardoning Craddock when he saw the latter's signature to one of the affidavits charging mismanagement of farm.

Upon hearing of Governor Trinkle's remarks, Davis or Craddock wrote him as follows:

"I read in today's papers that you said you were sorry you pardoned me. Governor, this hurts me more than anything else. I am waiting for you to say that you are really sorry that you gave me back to my wife and boy. I make you this offer: If you will remove R. R. Penn, and his assistant, 'Boss' Layne from office, I will come back to you and hand you that pardon, and do every day of that time. But I would rather be shot down like a dog than be under those men even for one week.

"I am not joking, Governor Trinkle, but will gladly sacrifice myself to help the poor unfortunate here who can't help themselves, and in doing this I am sacrificing my life and my wife and boy, who need me so much. But we do not want anything that is given grudgingly. I am offering you a fair exchange and I am waiting for your reply."

W. L. Davis was convicted in Roanoke for alleged theft of an automobile and sentenced to three years in prison. He has stoutly claimed he was "framed" by the city prosecutor or of Roanoke in revenge for failing to shield the prosecutor in a violation of the prohibition law. Judge Woodrum, of Roanoke, after he had served the greater part of his term, going so far as to go to Richmond and get Davis out personally.

In Davis' pardon this unusual clause was inserted: "Conditional pardon granted upon the further condition that the prisoner leave the State of Virginia." Davis was compelled to accept that condition before obtaining his pardon. Driven from Roanoke, where he formerly conducted a garage business and from the State entirely, Davis came to Washington and obtained employment under the name of George L. Craddock.

Mr. Dudding, president of the Prisoners' Relief Society, who secured Davis his employment, wrote Governor Trinkle today asking why he had put the unusual clause in Davis' pardon.

"Was it because you knew something against the fellow," asks Dudding, "or was it because you knew that he knew too much about things at the prison farm and you were afraid that if he stopped in the State he might tell some of the secrets? I am just asking for information as I want to know all about this fellow as I have recommended him and got him a position with a very good firm, and the Prisoners' Relief Society never tries to put a square peg in a round hole."

"We have looked Davis up from early manhood and find that he has never been in trouble before. The fact that you did pardon him and that the judge was so interested that he came all the way to the prison to carry the pardon to Davis seems to be in the man's favor. The pardon stated that his prison record was clear; not only that, but Governor Trinkle on Sept. 30. After waiting six days and receiving no reply to his offer he decided to— to acquaint the public with it."

Mr. Dudding urges Governor Trinkle again in his letter today to settle the controversy over allegations of cruelty and mismanagement at the prison farm by an investigation. He says: "This prison farm matter should be settled and settled at once. Somebody will, I am afraid, tell things that will precipitate a feeling that never before was manifested in the State of Virginia. Letters are coming to me and this society that indicate that something is going to get out that should not be told, and if I were you I believe I would let Captain Penn have a vacation for six months twice a year."

6,000 HEAR BILLY SUNDAY IN LYNCHBURG

LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 5.—About two hundred men and women from Roanoke invaded the Billy Sunday Tabernacle tonight and heard the evangelist preach to more than 6,000 persons here. They received a special word of welcome from the preacher and from his choir director, Homer Rodeheaver. The delegate chartered special cars over the Norfolk and Western Railroad, leaving here after the meeting. They were given an ovation when they stood up in the tabernacle as a delegation.

Mr. Rodeheaver, with Robert Matthews and Mrs. Wm. Asher, members of the Sunday party will go to Roanoke Monday where they will furnish a concert for the former service men there.

Effort to Burn The City Hall?

Clerk of Markets Reports to Police Drenching of the Wooden Doors With Heavy Oil and Scattered Matches.

The police department was notified by George S. Dyer, clerk of the markets, of what may have been an attempt to set fire to the Municipal Building last night. Early today discovery was made that several gallons of heavy oil had apparently been thrown against the wooden doors leading to the stands of A. Greenberg and the Patrick Fish Company, which have stands in the city market. Scattered around the floor of the market, which had trickled through the door into the building were scores of half-burned matches. The oil had been thrown in large quantities about the door and large pools of the product were found standing inside and out. The doors were treated in the same way it was hard to account for the circumstances being accidental. The oil had not ignited, although the number of matches scattered indicated that efforts had been made to set it on fire.

The police department undertook this morning an investigation of the affair, but no tangible clues could be found.

The oil used was apparently a heavy machine oil, less inflammable than coal oil or gasoline. Had the material ignited the fire would have been under the centre of the spread-out structure and had it once secured a hold it would have been difficult to confine it to the Municipal Building, a very old and would readily burn.

$50,000 SUIT IS FILED AGAINST MINE WORKERS

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 5.—Suits for $50,000 damages, based on the opinion in the famous Coronado case, was filed in Circuit Court here today against the United Mine Workers of America, by H. M. Sipe, Clarksburg coal operator.

Sipe contends that the union has persistently refused to sign an agreement with him, and that as a result he is unable to work the Miller Mine near Wilkesburg. This mine is leased by Sipe from the Hudson Coal Company.

The refusal of the union, it is said, is based on the fact that the Miller Mine is under direction of the Hudson Company, which operates another mine on a non-union basis.

With filing of the suit, attachment proceedings are made on all Checkoff Funds in Harrison County.

Harding Policy In Near East Is Attacked

Members of Foreign Affairs Committee Complain of National Aloofness in the Present Crisis.

BY GEORGE H. MANNING

(Special to The Bee.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—The statement credited to the White House that the administration has left nothing undone in the way of exerting pressure to make American sentiment effective in relation to the persecuted peoples of the Near East was challenged today by members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

That the administration, in pursuance of its policy of aloofness from all European affairs, declined six months ago the opportunity to take steps that might have prevented the terrible massacres that have occurred in Smyrna and elsewhere in Asia Minor and Turkey, was also charged by representatives of the Armenian-American Society, the Near East Relief and other organizations interested in preventing slaughter of the innocents in the Near East.

As far back as last February, it was pointed out, a resolution was introduced in the House by Representative John Rogers, of Mass., Republican, requesting the president of the United States to take up with Great Britain, France and Italy the calling of a conference to consider methods whereby the Armenians and other Christian peoples might be given opportunity to establish themselves as a nation, and be saved from persecution.

Extended hearings were held on the Rogers resolution by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs to which it was referred. Its adoption by Congress was urged by the following who appeared before the committee: George R. Montgomery, director of the society; Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief; Rev. W. C. Emhardt, representing the presiding bishops and the Council of the Episcopal church of the United States.

Despite the enforcement of these spokesmen, the resolution was allowed to die in the committee. The Republican members of the committee deliberately throttled the resolution which might have prevented the Smyrna massacres upon advice from officials of the State Department that it might embarrass President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes, in carrying out their policy of aloofness from all European and Asiatic affairs, it was charged today by Representative E. Walter Moore, of Virginia, and other members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and officials of the interested relief organizations.

It was recalled today that it was freely predicted at the hearings that unless there was concerted action by the powers, endorsed by the United States, the massacres that have recently occurred would follow.

That there is a complete precedent for the action that was asked of the administration last February was pointed out today by Representative

Moore who cited a parallel case that occurred under the administration of President Monroe when the Greeks were being oppressed by the Turks.

Mr. Moore called the precedent to the attention of the committee at the hearing on March 7th in the following colloquy with President Walter George Smith of the Armenian-American Society:

Mr. Moore: To be specific, in this resolution, there is no expression for employment of force ultimately, but leaving this altogether aside, what you desire now is to enlist the persuasive power of this government.

Mr. Smith: Exactly.

Mr. Moore: Exactly, as that influence was exerted in the House of Representatives under the leadership of Mr. Webster, when it passed a resolution with reference to the situation that then existed in Greece?

Mr. Smith: Yes, sir.

Mr. Moore: In that situation when the Greeks were being oppressed and murdered by the Turks?

Mr. Smith: Yes, sir.

Mr. Moore: That is a parallel case?

Mr. Smith: Perfectly so.

Mr. Moore: And you think we should take that course in the present case?

Mr. Smith: Quite so.

The text of the Rogers resolution is as follows:

"Resolved, That the president be requested to express to the definite government at Ankara (headed by Enver Pasha) the moral protest of the United States against the persecutions of the Armenians and other Christian peoples, and be it further

"Resolved, That the president be requested to take up with Great Britain, France and Italy the question of calling a conference for the purpose of considering methods by which the Armenians may be given an opportunity to establish themselves as a nation."

The Foreign Affairs Committee, headed by Representative Stephen O. Porter, of Pittsburgh, chairman, and guided by the State Department, refused to report the resolution. At that time the attitude of aloofness towards all that related to Europe was well understood as being the settled administration policy and the committee's action in killing the resolution coincided with the desire of the State Department, it is believed, and tended to relieve Secretary Hughes of embarrassment.

Crime Napoleon Sought In London

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The police are seeking in this city the head of what is said to be a remarkable group of international criminals. A veritable "Napoleon of Crime" is believed to have established his headquarters here. Under the leadership of their mysterious chief they are credited with conducting burglaries, cracking safes, and committing costly jewel robberies that baffled detection. Several papers print this story with varying degrees of sensationalism. Of late there has been an increasing number of jewel robberies. As a result an insurance company which insures a good deal of valuable jewelry has increased its premiums charged on this class of risks by 25 per cent.

J. W. Bell, one of London's leading assessors says that many big robberies have been so well planned and executed that the police can do little more than suspect the authors.

"The people who engineer these crimes are not the common, ordinary type of thief," Mr. Bell says. "There is more than one real rascal in existence today. They haunt society gatherings, and in the hotels they are popular guests."

"I know one man who has a town address, a country house near Bourne-mouth, and two fine motor cars who is more than suspected of complicity in some of these great robberies, but up to the present time there has never been the slightest chance of connecting him with any of them.

"He is of good appearance, always well-dressed, and would, in the ordinary way, be accepted as a guest at the houses of wealthy people."

"I know one instance in which a director of thieves is reputed to be worth $150,000. Another successful director is a woman who has a university education, and is a cultured and charming personality."

"The victims, both in hotels and at private houses are given watched and shadowed for days before a suitable opportunity for the robbery occurs. It may easily cost $1,000 or $1,500 to meet the expenses of a successful haul, and the big thieves require frequent robberies to maintain themselves."

Uncle Joe Rolls in Ease Over Trail of His Ghosts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—With an old slouch hat cocked on his head, "Uncle Joe" Cannon started by automobile today for Danville, Ill., traveling the old national pike his parents took eighty-three years ago in emigrating westward.

he veteran was full of pep as he told Lester Morris, ten years his chauffeur, and his sole companion on the trip, to "give her the gas."

Just before leaving, Mr. Cannon received a telegram from H. H. Franklin, automobile manufacturer at Syracuse, N. Y., offering to send down his best car open or closed, and his crack driver but "Uncle Joe" declined.

"This old car is good enough for me and I like to ride with Lester," he said. "With best of us, as he said, he will drive into Danville Saturday."

"I ride most of the way on the front seat with Lester so the windshield and this sweater vest will protect me," he said. "I don't like soft seats. When I ride in the back of the car I usually occupy the folding chair. I like the bumps at eighty-seven, for they remind me of life."

Radium will make a real diamond sparkle in the dark while it has no effect on an imitation.

MAYOR TO FIGHT

COLONEL LEACH

Just because he is mayor of Indianapolis and by politics is barred from holding any National American Legion office, Colonel George E. Leach has no intention of not fighting to improve conditions for the disabled veterans.

The former commander of the 151st field artillery part of the Rainbow division, is going to New Orleans as one of his state's delegates all primed to seek important reforms in the care of wounded men. Leach received a wound himself—also the French Legion of Honor, American D. S. C., Croix de Guerre and a bunch of other decorations.

Modern Machines To Help Uncover Ancient City

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—When work begins October 15 in exploring the dust buried ruins of the city of Ur, ancestral home of the Patriarch Abraham, by a joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania Museum, the archaeologists will have to contend with few of the extraordinary difficulties which hitherto have hampered work of the sort in Southern Mesopotamia.

That country is now under a British mandate. Hence the first difficulty—that of sharing the best of the discoveries with the museum in Constantinople—has been removed. Then, before the war virtually everything had to be done by hand. The expedition now on its way will be the first to utilize a complete modern mechanical equipment. Streets once thronged with men and women, silent now and buried for three thousand years, will echo the roar of locomotives and motor trucks.

"The expedition will start work under the most favorable auspices," said Dr. G. B. Gordon, director of the University Museum. "Since the British Museum is a governmental institution it was a simple matter to obtain equipment. The Colonial Office gave the utmost co-operation. A military railway and motor lorries have been provided to maintain communication with headquarters of the expedition, which will be at Baghdad."

Dr. C. L. Wolley, who has been at work recently on a Hittite site on the Upper Euphrates river, has been selected by Dr. Gordon to head the expedition, the British Museum having asked him to name a chief. Colonel T. W. Lawrence, a war hero and explorer of international reputation, will be second in command. Colonel Lawrence is credited with winning the Arab tribesmen over to the Allies in the world war. He was captured by the Turks and spent two years in a prison camp.

Sidney Smith, a young archaeologist of the British Museum staff, will go along to decipher cuneiform texts, and Paul Hunter as a representative of the university museum.

A NEW DANGEROUS SPORT.

A lad was killed in Washington on Thursday, victim of a new craze which has developed among youngsters—that of swinging to the rear fenders of automobiles and being tumbled over the street on roller skates.

The car driver applied his brakes, the machine skidded and the boy eager for the thrill of swift motion was crushed to death between the car which was towing him and another.

This is a warning we all should take for the craze has reached Danville just as it has probably reached other cities. The laying of smooth asphalt surfaces to many of our streets—at least five miles since last Spring—has been a factor in bringing out boys and girls, too, at dusk and "laying" for the automobile. Nearly every motorist must have been impressed with the danger that lies in this particular sort of fun. It invites disaster, for most of the children realize that it is impossible to cling to a fast-moving automobile on a straight stretch, wait at the corners of the streets knowing that every machine must slow down. Just as the motorist turns at a curtailed speed two or three youngsters will come sailing out from the curb to catch the rear fenders before the machine has picked up speed and once they have secured a hold they enjoy a free ride and one that is full of danger.

Let this example in Washington warn all of us before we shed tears over some lifeless form. Unless we recognize the danger immediately an accident will happen as sure as fate. It is largely a matter which must be left to parental discipline. The streets are public property and they are the one place where children can roller-skate without violating the law. Mothers and fathers would do well to warn their children and to point out to them the folly of courting death or injury.

Let us act before it is too late

HUMOR'S SOBER SIDE!

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT

Every once in a while an idea will start jogging along, headed for no place in particular, and after awhile, if it gets sort of careless like, it'll have a collision with another idea. The result is what is sometimes known as a wise crack according to Tom Sims whose column, "Tom Sims Says" has regaled readers of several hundred newspapers for the past year.

"By sheer accident," he says, "I may learn that skirts are longer. Then I see in the paper that coal is getting shorter. How strange, Watson, give me the typewriter. And hitting on all two fingers I hammer out, 'This winter's schedule calls for longer skirts and shorter coal.' The women have more sense than I thought."

"One day day while cussing because I had to work late I hit on, 'All work and no play makes jack.' This proved to be one of my most quoted lines."

"Another time I profited from a bulling out by an extra stout traffic cop. It was, 'A grinch is a man who thinks the world is against him—and he's right.'"

"Back in the subconscious sits the memory of a dog scratching a flea. A newly married friend whispers that he'd like to borrow a dollar until the ghost walks. The result is, Now, I have the only two who can live as cheaply as one flea and a dog."

"I believe the inside workings of my job could be divided into three parts: the first part you gather up all the news and incidents of the day. In the second you place all the familiar quotations and puns. In the third you have everything you can possibly learn about human nature."

"Then you stir them up. If the news of the day goes to the top you get such lines as, 'Chicago bandit attacked two policemen but both escaped.' If puns are mixed with the news you may get 'May we call the Dardanelles desperate straits? Thanks! If familiar sayings come up you just twist one and have, 'Back in the trenches by Christmas' is Europe's slogan."

"I do not know which of my lines I like the best. I met one of mine that I liked in a comic strip the other day. Many a baby pretends sleep to wake his father quit singing."

Imperial Wizard Pro Tem of Ku Klux Is Indicted

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—E. Y. Clarke, Imperial Wizard Pro Tem of the Ku Klux Klan, was indicted by the United States grand jury here today on charges of "using the mails to effect a scheme to defraud." He was released on bond of $500.

The charges against Mr. Clarke, who yesterday announced his resignation as pro tempore head of the Klan to take effect November 10, are based according to the true bill rendered by the grand jury on allegations of the mails in collecting money from certain members subordinate officers or employees of Ku Klux Klan on the pretense that such money would be used to pay premiums to surety companies furnishing bonds for Klansmen. The indictment alleged that the sums collected were in excess of the amount required to pay such premiums and that this excess was converted to the personal use of Mr. Clarke. According to allegations in the memorandum accompanying the charges Mr. Clarke used the mails collected money on the following plans:

Grand Gobblins were required to be bonded to the amount of $5,000 for which the fee of $25.00 was required to pay the premium to the bonding company. King Kleagles were required to furnish bonds of $2,500 for which a fee of $12.50 was required. There were also King Kleagles were required to furnish $1,000, for which a fee of $5 was required for premium. It is charged that the National Surety Company of New York was designated in the literature distributed by Mr. Clarke as the bonding company, and it is further alleged that the premium rates of this company for $5,000, the amount of a grand Gobblins bond, was only $5.00 and that the fee of $25.00 in this amount of this fee collected on the Grand Gobblin was converted to the personal benefit of Mr. Clarke, and that proportionately smaller deficiencies on the smaller bonds were handled in a like manner.

Memorandum included in the charges that Mr. Clarke mailed a letter on June 9, 1921 to George B. Kimbro, Jr., Houston, Texas, explaining terms of the bonding process, giving the rates and setting forth the rules of the Klan regarding bonds for employees.

Another memorandum is alleged to be the copy of a letter which Mr. Clarke mailed to Mr. Kimbro on February 6, 1922, in which he acknowledged receipts of checks for bond premiums of three Kleagles.

In a statement tonight concerning the indictment, Mr. Clarke termed it "another effort on the part of enemies of the Klan by discrediting Mr. Clarke."

"The ones who brought the charges before the grand jury are all discharged employees," he stated. "The indictment will not amount to anything, as I predicted false allegations against the Klan by discrediting Mr. Clarke."

"The money charged in the indictment to have received by me was all properly transmitted to the Imperial palace, and is on record at the palace. The grand jury, which heard one side of the case, and if they had been in possession of the real facts no indictments would have been returned."

MEN BLIND TO WOMAN'S SUFFERING
How many men, think you, have any idea of the pain endured by women in their own household and often without a murmur? They have no patience when the overworked wife and mother begins to get pale, have headaches, backaches, faint spells, or melancholy and cannot sleep. There is a help for every woman in the condition, as evidenced by the many voluntary letters of recommendation which we are continually publishing in this paper for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to give it a trial—adv.

Badly Pitched Ball Decides

BY BILLY EVANS
POLLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The story of the second game of the world series can be written around one badly pitched ball. The badly pitched ball was turned into a rather fluky Polo-Grounds home run. It gave a three-run lead, as two were at the time. It was a physical not mental error on the part of Bob Shawkey. That one mistake the badly pitched ball, keeps Bob Shawkey from having his name enrolled in the hero list. Emil Meusel, of the Giants, is notoriously weak on a low curve on the outside. Joe Bush proved that in the opening game of the series. It was figured Shawkey with his fast-breaking curve would be equally successful against the Giants' heavy hitter. Meusel came to the bat in the first inning with Groh on second and Frisch on first as the result of two clean hits. Two of the first three balls pitched to Meusel were sharp curves, low on the outside. He looked rather foolish on both of them, swinging wildly and missing. With the count two balls and a strike, Shawkey's next pitch undoubtedly was intended to be a low-breaking curve. Pitchers are not always able to control the course of the ball. This one refused to obey the dictates of the Yankees' star pitcher. Instead of breaking low and outside, the pitch was a curve ball that was rather high and slightly inside. It was the style liked best by Meusel. He took a healthy cut at the ball, stepping into it with vigor and pulling it into the left field bleachers. Bob Meusel, brother of the Giants' slugger, backed up against the left field bleachers, ready to make the catch. The driver, however, had just enough carry to clear the burler and land in the front of the bleachers. Bob Meusel could have easily made the catch on the ordinary playing field. After such a discouraging start, Shawkey pitched a most courageous game and highly deserved a tie. Had he been able to sacrifice successfully, he would have been returned the winner. More of that later.

After the second inning Shawkey was invincible, only two safe hits being made off his delivery. He improved as the game advanced, only 11 batters facing him in the last seven innings. His curve ball broke beautifully for him, and he was stronger at the finish than Barnes. The other break of the game, second in importance to Meusel's home run, also had Shawkey playing a leading role, this time as batsman rather than pitcher.

To the Tanks by courageous batting had managed to tie up the three-run lead they had spotted the Giants. In the first inning Bancroft's wild on Dugan's grounder by Pipp's hit, resulted in a run. In the fourth a terrific drive over the left field fence by Ward added another. Doubles by Ruth and Meusel in the eighth inning evened the count. Now for the second big thrill of the day. With one down, Scott hit safely. Shawkey started to the plate and was called back. Huggins ordered him to hunt. Undoubtedly he wanted to hit, because he showed that he was plainly peeved. However, the manager's judgment prevailed. Shawkey was bunted to the pitcher, but there was too much power in the effort as Scott was forced to second. If the play had been successful the Yankees would have won in nine innings, as Witt singled to left on the first pitch.

Battle Spirit Keeps Baseball At Top of Sports

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—By The Associated Press.—Battle spirit like of which was displayed in today's world series game between the Giants and the Yankees, is what keeps baseball at the top of national sports, in the belief of McGraw and Huggins, the rival managers.

"It was battle spirit," said McGraw, "that caused Bob Shawkey to grit his teeth and pitch great ball after that three times. And it was the same sort of spirit that led Frankie Frisch in front of a number of hard hit balls that ordinarily would have gone for hits.

Barnes was working wonderfully. He had a greater variety of curves and slow balls than I had knowledge of. He's a top notch pitcher. He's got the fighting spirit. In three runs were earned off him. I am sure Frisch's work on the defensive was the outstanding supporting feature, and nipped what have been Yankee rallies.

"Some of the spirit of determination that carried us to the pennant, brought us through to a tie today," said Miller Huggins after the game. "I saw also the determined attitude of my men as they went to the plate, it was the same, too."

"There wasn't need hardly to tell them what to do. They knew they had to hit and that they had to make every hit count. Barnes was an engine. He mixed his offerings. I think as much as any pitcher could have done. The Yankees were picking the good ones however and I'll vow that but for the uncanny stops made by Frisch we would have defeated him."

LONESOME CLUB TEAMS UP FRIENDLESS, MAKES HIT

MISS CLARA SALEM.

(By NEA Service.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A little widow sat all alone on a park bench and watch the young people strolling by.

Over by the curb a handsome limousine had drawn up. Inside the automobile a smartly dressed young woman regarded the little widow wistfully. After a while she leaned out and spoke.

"You look lonesome," she said, "and I'm lonesome, too. Won't you come and ride with me?"

This was one of the adventures in lonesomeness recounted at a meeting of the Lonesome Club organized by Miss Clara Salem, an attorney. The gatherings are held in a church here. "Writers and preachers," says Miss Salem, "are always extolling motherhood. But if an unmarried woman speaks right up in meeting and says she'd like to be a wife and mother if she only had the chance she's looked down upon as being downright immodest.

God created both men and women and he meant they should associate with one another. For the men and women whom circumstances have denied the ordinary avenues of association I have organized my Lonesome Club. I expect it to sweep all over the United States."

Men have taken to Miss Salem's idea more quickly than women.

"At the first meeting," says the founder, "there are 25 men and two women. At the next gathering the number was increased to 30 men and 10 women. Among them were young doctors, lawyers, school teachers and stenographers."

"Four couples paired off, went to a neighboring restaurant for dinner, and then out for a bus ride. The club was already fulfilling its purpose."

The 1922 baseball season, just closed, stands out as one of the most remarkable in major league history.

The unexpected has happened, records have been broken, thrills galore have been produced.

The American League pennant winner was not decided until a day before the close of the season.

Third place in the American League race, which carries with it a juicy cut in the world series also hung in the balance until a day before the close of the race.

Some idea of the battle for third place which was won by Detroit can be gleaned from the fact that Detroit finished one game ahead of Cleveland, the fourth place team, and the Indians were just one game in advance of Chicago.

In the National League, second and third place positions in the race were not decided until the final day of the season.

Cincinnati, by winning a double header from Pittsburgh, took second place from that club. An even split had insured the Pittsburgh club the runner-up position.

Louis, by defeating Chicago, worked itself into a tie with Pittsburgh for third place honors.

The home-run habit, started two years back, continued throughout the 1922 season. As a result, home-run totals were shattered.

Last season the American League teams made 477 home runs, the National 460, a total of 937 circuit clouts.

In the campaign just closed the National League made 529 homers, the American 525, a total of 1054.

A new home-run king was crowned, the person of Rogers Hornsby. With 42 home runs to his credit he dethroned the erstwhile "Sultan of Swat," Babe Ruth. Last season Hornsby made only 21 home runs.

In the American League, Ken Williams of St. Louis and Tilly Walker of Philadelphia noted out Babe Ruth. A late start of eight weeks cut Ruth's figure to 25 for the season. Williams made 39, Walker 27.

Hornsby, in making 42 home runs, set a new National League figure. In 1914 Ed Williamson made 27 home runs. That mark has stood the test of all the great hitters until Hornsby came through.

Ken Williams of the Browns and Walter Henline of the Phillies, in making three home runs in one game, pulled the unusual.

Walker of the Athletics and Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, on two occasions during the season, made two home runs in a game.

"Connie Mack" team, after holding undisputed possession of last place in the American League since 1914, emerged from that damp dark hole in favor of the Boston Red Sox.

The winning of 27 games by Eddie Rengel, with the Athletics, stands out as one of the greatest pitching performances in years. The Athletics won 65 games, Rengel winning nearly half of them.

Ty Cobb, as usual, played a prominent part in the unusual happenings of 1922.

Three major league batting records were tied by Cobb.

By batting better than .300, Cobb equaled the record of Hans Wagner, who, for 17 seasons, topped that figure.

In making more than 200 base hits, he equaled the record of Willie Keeler, who, for eight seasons, beat that mark.

By batting better than .400, Cobb equaled the feat of Jesse Burkett, who, for three seasons, recorded a .400 or better average.

Cobb's records, in a way, is more remarkable than Burkett's, since the latter's feat was not in effect when Burkett was in the game. However, the ball today is much livelier than the one Burkett hit at.

Rogers Hornsby, by getting three hits in five times at bat in the last game, finished the season a trifle better than .400.

Not since 1919 has any National league player batted over .400. In that year Ed Deleahanty with the Philadelphia Nationals had a mark of .403.

Only eight National League players since the inception of that organization have batted better than .400.

The showing of the Boston Red Sox against the New York Yankees during 1922, is proof positive of the uncertainties of the National pastime.

New York won the pennant in the American League, Boston finished last, yet the Red Sox team was the only club to win the series from the American League pennant winners, Boston taking 15 to the 22 games.

Joe Bush, who, by his great pitching, materially assisted New York in winning the American League pennant, also has a grievance against the Red Sox.

Bush won 26 games and lost only 7, yet five of the seven games that he lost were won by Boston.

Another unusual series was the one staged between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion. An emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with a twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation which the creosote produces. The stomach is not affected by the attacks the rest of the treatment destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, whooping cough, bronchitis and other forms of lung disease, and is especially helpful in the treatment of children. It can be used in any form of food and is not retained after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—adv.

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. J. G. Bowman, of 1818 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go."

"I was thin."

"I had no appetite."

"Could not rest or sleep well."

"I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself or any one else."

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart."

"This nervous condition was worse than pain."

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it."

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well."

"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition."

"If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, it is reasonable to suppose that you, too, will find Cardui helpful for your troubles, as thousands of women have."

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—adv.

HARD LUCK PURSUED KING BUT HE NEVER GAVE UP

ATHENS, Greece.—King George V, who was forced to renounce all claims to the throne, but two months later there was another upheaval in Greece and George and Constantine were asked to return to their country.

While George was in Rumania, a royal march was arranged between him and Princess Elizabeth.

They were married at Bucharest on Feb. 27, 1921. The bride was 27; the bridegroom 21.

But hard luck still pursued the prince. A few days later he was laid up with the mumps which he caught from his bride.

It was nothing serious, however. As a matter of fact, it seemed to change his luck.

When his father got into trouble and was forced to abdicate, George received the call.

Now both he and his wife are happy.

UNITED STATES SUE DAYTON AIRPLANE CO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The suit entered today by the government against the Dayton Airplane Company, formerly the Dayton-Wright Company, is one of the several which is in course of preparation by the department of justice based on either fraudulent under war contracts or illegal over payments of certain items in those contracts in cases where no specific fraud is to be charged.

Other suits will be filed, officials declared, as each case is completed, if the facts in the government's possession seem to warrant recourse to the courts. Officials here refused to indicate what war contracts were under inquiry in this connection.

POSSE AFTER NEGRO

TUSALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 5.—A posse, headed by Sheriff Harry B. Harris, and deputies tonight are searching for a negro miner charged with attempted assault today upon a white woman. The negro was shot in the leg and taken into custody at his home three miles from Sallis in Tusaloosa.

COTTONS

Prices of cottons, cottons and apparel are equally important, according to reports from manufacturers and dealers.

The higher prices set in force and worked by the London cotton market are being met by competing manufacturers who for sometime have complained that the market would be passed down the line.

The cause for the present market found in increased prices of raw material, value of the cotton, the demand and a growing scarcity of more desirable qualities. There is a lack of shortage of certain grades of cotton which go into the making of the goods now being produced.

Whitney Says Girl Is Wife of Sailor

Millionaire's Son Resists Suit of Dancer for Million in Heart Balm.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The defense of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney, to the million-dollar breach of promise suit of Evan Burrows Fontaine, a dancer, was indicated when the case was called by Justice Borsini in the Supreme Court here today. Counsel for Whitney declared there was no basis for action because Miss Fontaine was married at the time the defendant is alleged to have promised marriage.

Today's proceedings brought out that Miss Fontaine had been married to Sterling E. Adair, a sailor, and that the marriage had been annulled. Whitney's counsel contended the annulment was invalid because it had been obtained by false and fraudulent representations. Miss Fontaine was alleged to have declared they parted immediately after the wedding ceremony and never lived together.

James A. Leary, of Whitney's counsel, offered in evidence alleged letters of Adair to Miss Fontaine to attack her statement that she never lived with him. They were of an extremely amorous nature. Mr. Leary also presented affidavits that Adair and Miss Fontaine had lived as husband and wife at hotels in New York, Newport News and Hotoken.

Justice Borsini reserved decision indefinitely in today's action, which was brought by Miss Fontaine's attorneys to compel the defendant to accept service of a writ so suit could be begun.

Aged Pastor Being Tried On Murder Charge

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 5.—Raymond Cioe, young mountaineer serving a life sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Anna McKennon in Montgomery county last year refused to testify today when placed on the stand in the second trial of Rev. Harding M. Hughes, superannuated minister, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Mrs. McKennon. The aged minister is being tried here on a charge of venue after his former conviction on the charge had been set aside by the Supreme court. The State charges that he planned the killing of Mrs. McKennon in order to secure possession of her property on which, it is claimed, he believed he had discovered a silver mine.

Cioe was the principal witness for the prosecution in the former trial. Judge Wood trying the case and a minister in the courtroom urged Cioe to tell the truth, but he absolutely refused to give any evidence.

On motion of the State, transcript of Cioe's testimony in the former trial of the minister was read to the jury, and Judge Wood announced that while there was no Supreme court decision to support such a procedure he would admit the transcript as "secondary evidence" or the best that could be secured. This testimony was to the effect that the minister gave him whiskey and furnished him with the gun with which Mrs. McKennon was killed.

Cigarette Factory Ceases Operations But May Re-Open

nothing of the determination to close until it was too late to intercede.

Mr. Lipscomb said this morning that he did not know whether the company would keep him here or transfer him to some other plant.

Closing of the factory is not without its economic effect. The weekly payroll is $3,000, all of which money is distributed locally. Uncle Sam also will be a substantial loser on account of the demand for internal revenue stamps suddenly ceasing.

Officials of the internal revenue department asked today at the office of the local deputy, said that they did not feel at liberty to give out the monthly receipts reaching the government through the demand for these stamps which are placed on every box of cigarettes. With the removal a few years ago of the Gravelly plant from Danville and the cessation of activity at the Piedmont Tobacco Company's plant, today's announcement removes a third source of revenue to the government.

It is more than likely now that official announcement is made of the company's decision that some steps will be taken towards bringing back manufacturing plants to Danville—the place where large quantities of raw material is purchased.

(By The Associated Press.)

COTTON PROBE
TO BEGIN NOV. 30

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Investigation of the cotton situation, including cotton exchange operations, by the Senate Agricultural Committee, under the resolution of Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, will begin about the last of November, Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, stated today after a conference with Senator Smith. A conference of Senators in the cotton states, Senator Heflin said, would be held to map out a program. The Alabama Senator said that the investigation would develop what methods "have been and are now being employed to evade the law, manipulate cotton prices and control the market," and would determine whether cotton exchanges were helpful or hurtful to the cotton industry, and whether regulatory legislation should be enacted.

DRY GOODS

CHICAGO, October 5.—The dry goods business is active here today with a good demand for seasonable merchandise. Orders embrace a wide variety of goods but are almost invariably for immediate needs. Indications are that retail stocks are low. Many kinds of cotton goods have advanced in price and higher quotations for future delivery are expected.

ART BEATS CASH, ISADORE THINKS

ISADORA DUNCAN

BY EDWARD M. THIERRY
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Isadora Duncan, high priestess of a school of dancing all her own, is the first person who has come out of Russia and hasn't talked about politics; commercial treaties; Red propaganda; paper money; Lenin; Trotsky; food.

Miss Duncan (whose married name is Mrs. Serge Yessenin, though she doesn't use it much) talked about these subjects:

Art: the soul of the Russian people; idiotic movies; husband (whom she calls by his last name, pronounced E-sane); Ellis Island officials who keep their hats on and talk through their noses; Walt Whitman; Russia's intellectual wealth; horrid persons who imitate her dancing without understanding what it is all about.

Wearing her famous rich red hair and little else but a flowing ankle-length tunic of crimson, Miss Duncan talked in three languages at once, and flitted did her own interpreting. Thus:

"Da," she said to her husband, who is Russian.

"Oui," she said to her secretary, who is French.

"Yes!" she said to her interviewer, who understands English.

Fresh from Ellis Island, where the immigration officials grilled her on her dancing and her interest in Bolshevism (which she denied), Miss Duncan said the following things in rapid succession:

"Yes! I am a Communist—in spirit. Like Walt Whitman. Not politically. I was in Russia to establish a children's school of dancing. I didn't mix in Russian politics. I am interested only in art. Art is greater than governments. I want to start a dancing school in America. By music and the dance. I want to train children how to live. I don't want to train them for the stage. I hate children on the stage—though they would be better there than in the gutter."

"Russia is wonderful. Its soul is free. The youth of Russia has a different mind and soul from Russians of the old regime."

"My Yessenin (she waved toward her young flaxen-haired husband, a considerable number of years younger than herself) is the first of the young revolutionary Russians to come to America. He is a great poet who wishes to establish an entente cordiale with the youth of America."

"America and Russia are the two countries of the future. The others are worn out. America needs Russia and Russia needs America."

"Russia's intellectual wealth is greater than America's wealth in dollars."

"Over there they play Shakespeare, Tolstoy, Gorky and other masters on the stage. Here plays are horrible."

"Here the people go to the movies to see idiotic pictures—people making faces at each other. Griffith perhaps has brought a little intelligence to the cinema—just a little. Russians think the cinema is an inferior diversion."

"America is so flippant. They talk of me flippantly. They imitate my dancing, but do not understand it. I preach freedom of the mind through the freedom of the body; women, for example—out of the prison of corsets into a free flowing tunic like this. Ah, why can't they understand?"

She smiled tragically, and as she got up and moved away to interpret herself to her cosmopolitan entourage her red tunic flowed freely out behind her.

Sound Economy

There is no sound economy which does not rest upon self-denial. The very first step to success and competence is to step upon yourself, to do what you ought to do rather than what you want to do. Jacquette—That's Name of Smart New Blouse

The new blouse is called a Jacquette, and it may be of various kinds. The bottom is frequently flared, occasionally flares and is practically always hip length. Its sleeves are bell-shaped and three-quarter length. The neck is usually V-shaped.

Different authorities differ about the details of this Jacquette, however, and the only point on which they really agree is that it must be severely tailored with not a frill to break its smart austerity.

Navy blue and the new browns are the favorite colors with black, lucifer, green and grey following. The material oftentimes used is matisse or embroidered satin or crepe.
